Health Promotion

The learning within this booklet will frame your assessment and be marked by your Learning Leader.

This work must be completed to a high standard and be completely your own. Any plagiarism will result in No Evidence NE grade and contact home will be made.

Learning Objectives: Learners will take action to set goals and participate in activities to create a program to improve their own Taha Tinana. Learners will build knowledge and make sense of health hygiene practices, physical responses to physical activity and the benefits of regular physical activity to hauora.

Success Criteria: Learners will know they have been successful when they have engaged positively with others and completed the practical and theory learning.

Learner Instructions: Within this unit of work learners are to take part in both practical and theory lessons. This means you will need to be prepared for learning each lesson with a pen, PE uniform and chromebook.

Task 1: For each of the words below you are to write a definition that you understand, draw an image to show your understanding and give an example of the meaning.

Word	Definition	Image	Example
Taha Tinana
Hygiene
Healthy

Task 2: In the image below is an empty outline of a person. Around the outside of the image you are to brainstorm everything you can think of that makes up a healthy person.

Task 3: Hygiene is incredibly important not only for your Taha Tinana but also demonstrates manaakitanga for yourself and others. In the table below you are to identify and describe the hygiene practice required, explain why it is important and how it demonstrates manaakitanga to others.

	Hygiene Practices Required	Why are these practices important for someone's Taha Tinana?	How do these practices demonstrate manaakitanga to others?
Body odour	Shower + Roll on	So you don't stink and get embarrassed.	By them not telling you that you stink. Also, not having to put up with your bad hygiene.
Teeth
Physical activity during the school day
Feet
Coughing
Period	Showering. Pads. Tampons. Menstrual Cup. Liners.	To stay clean. Not smell, nor bleed through	By staying clean and not leaking everywhere where others can sit in your mess.
Face & skin
Washing hands

Task 4: In the table below the physical responses to physical activity have been identified for you. You are required to describe these responses, why they take place and the positive impacts this has on an individual.

Physical responses to physical activity	Description of what happens and why the response takes place.	Benefits of this response to an individual
Heart rate
Temperature
Breathing rate
Blood pressure
Hormonal

--	--	--

Task 5: Throughout this task you are to engage in a variety of physical challenges to determine where your Taha Tinana is at and where you would like to improve. Your learning leader will guide you through each of these challenges during your practical lessons and you are to record below your result.

Measured	What did you do	Pre Result	Post Result
Resting heart rate
Working heart rate
Flexibility
Cardiovascular
Muscular endurance
Co-ordination
Explosive power

From these pre results, where are three areas you would like to improve?

After training I would like to have post results of:

The actions I will need to put in place to achieve this goal are:

Reflection: Throughout the term you are to take part in a variety of ACTIVITIES. During each activity you are to engage positively and reflect on the impact the activity had on reaching your goal.

Use the sentence starters below to help guide you.

During today's lesson I participated in*(describe the activity)*.
My level of engagement and participation was (low, medium, high)..... This was because*(describe why this was, how were you influenced)*.
This has a (positive / negative) impact towards my goal because (explain why using examples the impact it had towards you achieving your goal).
To improve on reaching my goal next lesson I need to*(what actions do you need to put in place to ensure you do better next lesson)*.
