LEARNER INSTRUCTIONS:

Candidates will submit a portfolio that demonstrates their understanding of the influence of personal movement experiences on hauora, as defined by the model of health Fonofale. The portfolio will consist of FOUR reflections. THREE reflections must relate to a specific and different movement experience. ONE reflection must relate to the overall influence of the movement context on hauora.

Personal movement experiences must come from repeated participation in a single physical discipline or sport.

Reflections must be supported by examples from the candidate's own participation, which should be collected during the year as the personal movement experiences occur.

Examples can be still or moving images, audio recordings, or detailed written examples.

When candidates collect evidence, they should ensure they link it to their model of health and how that was influenced by the movement experience.

Reflections should be concise, including only evidence related to the assessment activity.

Develop a portfolio which demonstrates understanding of the influence of personal movement experiences on hauora, as defined by the model of health Fonofale.

The response should include:

a) A reflection for each of your THREE separate personal movement experiences of your chosen physical discipline or sport.

Each of the THREE reflections should focus on a different aspect of Fonofale.

- Identify your personal movement experience and the date on which you completed this (for example, mountain biking on 3 March, 2026).
- How did the personal movement experience make you feel and influence your hauora?
- Identify which elements in the Fonofale model of health this connected to (for example, the physical pou, Tino faaletino, which relates to your body, health, and physical needs).
- Give a specific example of your own participation in the movement experience to show how and why this element was influenced. The influence could be positive or negative.

Note: Do not repeat material in your three reflections.

b) Complete one final reflection where you draw overall conclusions, making connections to at least FOUR elements of Fonofale.

- What have you learnt about how movement influences your hauora?

- How might this impact your future movement experiences?
